FDR recalls Vandalism, Commission for Treason To Confederacy

CITES "QUITTERS" AT VALLEY FORGE Criticizes Americans Who Think Dictatorships Will Triumph

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, April 25.—President Roosevelt placed Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh today in the category of Civil War "Copperheads."

The President was asked at a press conference why the army had not taken up Lindbergh's commission. The famous aviator, who frequently has criticized the administration's foreign policy, as a reserve colonel.

The President remarked that in the Civil War, both the Confederates and the northerners took on liberty-loving people from other countries, and both let certain people go.

The latter, he said, were the Vandalishians. "Clement Vallandigham was an Ohioan who was arrested by the union military authorities in 1863 for "treasonable utterances" and was banished to the Confederate states.

(He was known as a leader of the "Copperheads.")

Calls Him Appeaser When reporters did not react to the name, Mr. Roosevelt said the Vandalishians was an appeaser who wanted to make peace in 1863 because he felt the northerners could not win.

Still replying to the question about Lindbergh, Mr. Roosevelt said there also were a few traitors at Valley Forge who did not want to fight for the British. He advised reporters to read what Thomas Paine had written on the advisability of quitting.

Roosevelt was sharply critical of those Americans who, he said, have taken the attitude that the dictators will surely be victorious.

This, he said, is not good Americanism. And it is a dumb attitude, he added.

Mr. Roosevelt declared he was "again" dictators—that everybody was—and that America was willing to fight for democratic processes.

He said he, for one, could not lie down before dictators. "My remarks were prompted by a question whether he would amplify his remarks at a press conference Tuesday that the American people are not aware of the gravity of the situation."

W.F. Lones, Former Judge, Succumbs at Home In Wellsville

Veteran Lawyer, Jurist, Ill Several Months, Bedfast a Week

William Franklin Lones, judge of the Columbiana county common pleas court for 14 years and a county attorney for more than 50 years, died at 12:45 a. m. today at his home, 533 Riverside ave., Wellsville. He was 77.

Judge Lones had been in failing health for several months, particularly since his retirement last Dec. 31. He had been bedfast only about a week.

He was a native of Columbiana county and had spent his lifetime within its confines, with the exception of five years in Dayton, Tenn. The son of William H. and Minerva H. Williams Lones, he was born Aug. 29, 1863, in Madison township, near Williamsport.

Lisbon High Graduate He attended Cream Ridge school, Lisbon High school and was graduated from Ohio Northern university at Ada in 1884. Then he went to East Liverpool where he entered the office of A. H. Clark to study law. He was admitted to the Ohio bar Feb. 3, 1886, and in later years was admitted to practice in the U. S. district court and the court of appeals.

Shortly after being admitted to the Ohio bar, Judge Lones moved to Dayton, Tenn., to become a law partner with S. W. Swabey. In 1889 he was elected mayor of Dayton and was re-elected in '91. While serving his second term, he resigned to return to Wellsville where he took over the practice of Judge P. C. Young. He served as Wellsville city solicitor from 1894 to 1896.

In 1896 Judge Lones formed a partnership with Jesse C. Hanley, former judge of the East Liverpool municipal court, but when Hanley entered military service, Judge Lones joined with Walter B. Hill and the late George E. Davidson in forming a law firm, known as Lones, Hill and Davidson.

This partnership continued until

Fought Lincoln, C.L. Vallandigham Exiled By Union

Clement L. Vallandigham, referred to by President Roosevelt today as an "appeaser," in connection with the president's comments on the attitude of Charles Lindbergh, was a native Columbiana countian.

He was born in New Lisbon July 29, 1820, son of Rev. Clement Vallandigham, one of the county's pioneer preachers. He became a lawyer and ultimately won his way to the legislature, assuming leadership of the Democratic party.

In 1852 he lost the Democratic nomination for governor. In 1857 he was a candidate for congress against Lewis D. Campbell, and though defeated, contested the seat and won it, serving from May 25, 1858, until March 3, 1863.

During the 37th congress he became conspicuous for his bold utterances against the acts of the administration in the conduct of the Civil war. After his term, he came back to Ohio to attack the Lincoln administration with great violence and bitterness.

He opposed the war, historians say, because he "believed that it was impossible to conquer the south." He is quoted as calling the Civil war a "diabolical attempt to end slavery and set up a Republican despotism."

General A. E. Burnside, then commander of the Department of Ohio, issued an order declaring that persons within the lines who were found committing certain specified acts for the benefit of the enemy should be tried as traitors and spies. Vallandigham replied to this order with a violent outburst and Gen. Burnside ordered his arrest.

He was taken to Cincinnati, tried by court-martial, convicted and sentenced to close confinement during the war. President Lincoln changed the sentence to banishment across the lines.

Vallandigham made his way to Bermuda and thence to Canada. While thus in exile he was nominated for governor in 1863 by the Democratic party in Ohio.

CABINET AIDS TALK STRONG

Hull, Knox and Wickard Voice Appeals For Decisive Action

WASHINGTON, April 25.—The concerted demand by three cabinet members for decisive action in the present war crisis was generally interpreted here as a pointed forewarning that a development of top magnitude was near.

Secretary of State Hull, Secretary of Navy Knox and Secretary of Agriculture Wickard, addressing widely different audiences yesterday, all spoke out in unusually strong language.

"The safety of this hemisphere and of this country," asserted Hull, "calls for resistance wherever resistance will be most effective." To wait for actual invasion would be "utterly short-sighted and extremely dangerous."

The declared policy of the nation, he added, meant that aid to Britain "must reach its destination in the shortest of time and in the maximum quantity."

"So—ways must be found to do this," Knox struck an identical note.

"We cannot allow our goods to be sunk in the Atlantic," he said, "we shall be beaten if they do. We must see the job through. This is our fight."

Wickard's theme was that if the United States is "to continue as a great nation, it must act like a great nation." He summarized the chronicle of the war as a "story of 'too little and too late'."

"Millions of Americans," he declared, "are getting sick of that story."

Just what type of action might be presaged by the three addresses was a matter of conjecture, with considerable attention paid to the fact that both Hull and Knox laid heavy emphasis on the necessity of seeing that lease-lend supplies got to England safely.

1940 AUTO PLATES ARE NO GOOD NOW

Andy Kohler of R. D. 1, Berlin Center, one of three motorists arrested yesterday by state highway patrolmen, was fined $5 and costs by Mayor George Wilson at Canfield for driving a car with 1940 license plates. He was charged specifically with failure to register.

Walter Irwin, 26, of Beloit, arrested on a charge of speeding, was fined $10 and costs by Mayor L. A. Bandy at Sebring, Albert Deutsch, 32, of Cleveland, nabbed on a similar offense, drew a like fine in Mayor Arthur Myers' court at Columbus.

A companion, Claudius Neider of Columbiana, was taken to Mansfield to start serving a one to 15 year sentence for the burglary of the Morris Oil station at Leetonia.

THERMOPYLAE LINE CRACKED, GERMANS SAY

Outnumbered British Fall Back As Nazis Lunge Toward Athens

"ENEMY THROWN OUT" NAZIS' ASSERTION

Ambulance Drivers Report Terrific Loss of Life In German Ranks

(By Associated Press) British rear guard troops, hopelessly out-numbered, fell back from the bloody "hot gates" of Thermopylae pass today as Adolf Hitler's invasion armies lunged forward in a final drive toward Athens, less than 100 miles away.

Hitler's high command said bluntly that Nazi units had "thrown the enemy out" of the historic pass, overcoming strongly fortified defenses where the British and a handful of Greek allies had held out for more than two days.

The German break-through came 48 hours after Nazi quarters in Berlin prematurely declared Wednesday morning that the pass had already been taken and that the British rearguard had been "annihilated."

Admit Withdrawal British Middle East headquarters acknowledged that B. E. F. troops made a further withdrawal, "inflicting severe losses on the enemy" as they fell back toward Athens.

Earlier dispatches from the Hellespont capital itself declared that grey-green waves of Nazi infantry storming the pass had been driven off and that the Germans had brought up heavy 6-inch guns to shell the allied defenses.

Ambulance drivers arriving in Athens from the battlefield said the Germans had suffered terrific losses in attempts to take the pass by infantry assaults. British casualties were described as "extremely light."

In London, no attempt was made to conceal that withdrawal of the British expeditionary force was "in the cards," but the British radio declared last night that so far "not one British soldier has re-embarked from Greece."

The German high command pictured chaotic destruction among ships waiting in Greek "escape" ports to remove surviving B. E. F. troops. Stuka dive-bombers were reported to have sent six vessels to the bottom and damaged 14 others in the past 24 hours.

"These were so severely damaged they would hardly be usable for embarkation of the British expeditionary corps," the German communique said.

Less Serious Than Dunkerque While conceding another major setback, London officials insisted the climax of the 20-day-old battle of the Balkans was "less serious" than the episode at Dunkerque, in the Allied escape from the bloody fields of Flanders last spring.

The number of troops and the quantity of material endangered by the German drive in France was far greater, the British said.

A Nazi spokesman described Athens as a "ripe apple" waiting to be plucked by the German conqueror.

Although some Axis claims put the Nazi vanguards only about 35 miles from Athens as early as Wednesday, advances in Berlin today acknowledged that the German army still is an appreciable distance from the city and is approaching it cautiously.

The Germans indicated that the Greek capital, with its relics of antiquity, would not be occupied until it could be entered without bombardment—as Paris was taken. The Luftwaffe, meanwhile, continued.

GERMANS TAKE GREEK ISLAND

Overcome Lemnos defense, Within 40 Miles of Dardanelles

ATHENS, April 25.—German forces, carried by plane-escorted troop ships, landed yesterday on the Greek island of Lemnos, 40 miles from the strategic Dardanelles, and subdued a small Greek force after a four hour battle.

The ministry of home security disclosed indirectly that the Germans also were on the neighboring island of Samothrace.

"We understand," said its communique, "that the island of Lemnos reported that the German commanding officer at Samothrace demanded that the authorities of Lemnos surrender the island by midnight of the 23d, having threatened, if it were not surrendered, to occupy the island by force."

"The perfect applied for orders and he was instructed to carry out his duty as imposed by national honor."

"At 5 a. m. the enemy started landing at Port Burnia on Lemnos, the German forces having been transported by troops escorted by aircraft."

"The small" infantry and gendarme force on the island put up resistance, the clash continuing beyond 9 a. m. All authorities remain at their posts in accordance with government orders."

OSU 'Streamlined' Course Announced

COLUMBUS, April 25.—Abbreviated college educations—comprising two years of "wide, human interest study and designed for students who want to make the most of their time—will be offered by Ohio State university next fall.

The new curriculum, the result of six years of planning by university officials, will be conducted as a five year experiment with 60 short-term students scheduled for enrollment this fall.

The dream of President Emeritus George W. Rightmire, the "streamlined" course will emphasize general college studies designed to give students a broader understanding of life.

"It is not for students who are having academic difficulties," said Junior Dean D. Luther Evans, chairman of the committee setting up the program. "Nor is it for students who are working for degrees."

The program is set up to aid persons who are unable to complete four years or more of college work because of economic reasons, age, or numerous other causes, Evans explained.

It is mapped to satisfy five basic and comprehensive student needs, he added. These include: (1) Proficiency in use of English in reading, writing and speaking; (2) Ability to employ and the habit of employing a scientific approach to solutions of problems; (3) Understanding of economic, political and social factors responsible for society of today; (4) Appreciation of man's achievements in literature, art, music and philosophy; and (5) Personal, academic and vocational guidance.

U.S. Ship Patrol To Be Extended As It's Needed

Partial German Occupation of Big Island Indicated; Administration Not Thinking of Convoys Now, Says President

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, April 25.—A possibility that Axis forces partly occupy Greenland, big Danish island in the western hemisphere now under American protection, was disclosed by President Roosevelt today in what he frankly termed a surprising statement.

At the same press conference, Mr. Roosevelt said that the United States neutrality patrol would operate as far into the waters of the seven seas as may be necessary for the defense of the western hemisphere.

But emphatically the President said that the administration was not thinking of convoys at this time. He described the task of American patrol ships as the reconnaissance of ocean areas to determine whether an aggressor ship might be coming into the western hemisphere.

Convoys, on the other hand, Mr. Roosevelt said, was escorting merchant ships in a group to prevent acts of aggression on them. The American neutrality patrol, he added, could not be made a convoy by calling it one any more than a cow could be turned into a horse by calling it a horse.

The President also told reporters that Americans who have taken the attitude that the dictators will be victorious had adopted a

GERMANS WARN U.S. ON CONVOYS

Relieve Themselves of Responsibility for "Unforeseen Events"

(By Associated Press) NEW YORK, April 25.—The German radio declared today that Adolf Hitler's threat to destroy all ships entering the British war zone with aid for Britain relieves Germany of liability "should unforeseen events occur."

The broadcast, transcribed by CBS, was a reply to last night's speeches by Navy Secretary Knox and Secretary of State Hull.

"The fact that England is beaten can't be changed by U. S. A. help," the German radio said.

"It is stressed in Germany that the speech of Co. Knox contains the admission that America has gone too far to turn back. The United States has never been threatened with war by Germany. On the contrary, the fuhrer repeatedly stated that between Germany and the United States there existed no enemy whatsoever."

"The Berlin press recalls in this connection Hitler's words to the effect that all ships entering the war zone around Britain would be torpedoed by submarines or bombed by the Luftwaffe. These warnings should have been plain enough so that Germany will be without any liability, should unforeseen events occur."

"Both speeches (Hull's and Knox's) are in striking contrast to declarations made by Col. Lindbergh who said in his last speech that about one hundred million Americans opposed the war entry of the United States."

"Also over there, fronts have become clearly drawn, in case complications should occur as the result of the irresponsible instigation of a plutocratic clique."

Take Issue With Knox BERLIN, April 25.—Sharp issue was taken today by authorized Germans with what they called an assertion last night by U. S. Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox that the German people consider the American people their enemies.

"Knox said: 'What we all see is an America which is gradually becoming encircled by military powers whose ideals, institutions and methods are all of them irreconcilably antagonistic to our ideals, institutions and methods. These same powers have also openly and repeatedly proclaimed themselves our enemies, and these openly avowed enemies have joined themselves together in a pact which they do not hesitate to say is aimed at us, and at us alone.'"

"We hate the Knoxes, Frankfurters, Morgenthau and that 'Smart Aleck' Donovan," these sources said, "but we also know that the great majority of American people do not think their way."

(They referred apparently to the

TOO LITTLE, TOO LATE, TOO BAD

The costly, disastrous withdrawal from the continent at Dunkirk the last few days in May, a year ago, woke up America.

It was suspected then, confirmed later, that if the Germans had been able to follow up the rout of the British expeditionary force, reaching a climax in the flight across the English channel, they could have invaded England.

But apparently the German military staff was unprepared to exploit the advantages of the Allied collapse. The battle of France, though already won, had not been concluded. The French did not surrender till June 17. Invasion of Great Britain, though expected hourly throughout the summer and fall, never was attempted.

Apprehension in the United States decreased in proportion to the accumulation of days, weeks, and months in the breathing spell after Dunkirk. Though the frightening possibility of being confronted with the fact of an unopposed and tremendously powerful Germany, controlled by a government dedicated to the destruction of popular government, was enough to bring about conscription and tremendous appropriations for defense, the end of the summer found most Americans taking the war casually. By autumn, they were listening, not too skeptically, to the promises of rival presidential candidates to see to it that the war turned out favorably for the United States—but without running any risk.

The United States didn't go back to sleep after Dunkirk, but it did begin to behave, awake, as though it were skeptical of the danger that woke it up. No one can be blamed for this. It is impossible to avert the psychological effect of anti-climax. On the whole, considering all the circumstances, the United States made fair progress with its defense effort, despite a vast amount of public lethargy and dubious executive leadership.

Another Dunkirk, the disaster in Greece, may be expected to have a correspondingly good effect on America's grasp of the war's staggering realities. The wishful thinking that prompted Americans to believe, first, that Germany wouldn't try to do what it was plainly preparing to do, then to believe it couldn't do what it plainly had started to do, will be given another setback.

Americans almost had convinced themselves that Germany would come to grief in the Balkans against the combined force of Greece, Yugoslavia, and the British expedition on the Grecian peninsula. They had forgotten again that the last time Germany went on the prowl it took the combined efforts of Great Britain, France, Russia, Italy, the United States, and Japan to make its militarists ask for an armistice—and even then Germany, paper, had not been touched by the war.

They had forgotten what was learned in France and in the lowlands about the superiority of Germany's mechanized equipment, backed up by years of careful planning for its employment to do what the enemy hoped to thwart by static defense and improvisation. Never, since American defense preparations were begun in earnest, less than a year ago, has their meaning been plainer than it is now.

The British have lost their last ally in Europe. Once more the litany, "Too little, too late, and too bad," is being muttered. Two more brave nations have been crushed beneath the Nazi juggernaut, and today, except for the United States, Great Britain stands alone. Wishful thinking still dictates the hope that Great Britain somehow may be able to survive, but honesty compels realization that, except for the period immediately after Dunkirk when the British were disorganized and desperately in need of essential equipment, the prospect for its survival never looked quite so bleak as it does now.

The good intentions of the United States in the matter of Britain's survival will pull no more weight than the good intentions of Britain pulled in the resistance of the nations it favored. If the British are overcome in their last remaining strongholds, it will be one more repetition of "Too little, too late, too bad."

The United States hopes that will not happen. It hopes, if it does happen, that the eventualities will find Americans ready to accept the destiny which then would be plain beyond any possibility of doubt. This civilization would be charged with the task of maintaining its social principles against the opposition of a foreign power absorbed in the eternal counter-revolution against human freedom.

The impact of the breakdown of liberalism in Europe would be felt in this hemisphere in full force if Britain succumbed. There would be no cushion to diminish the blow. There would be nothing, except the unrequited longing of men in all countries for release from autocracy. But it would be enough to keep freedom alive, granted one thing—that America had escaped the curse of "Too little, too late, too bad."

National defense cannot be too much, too early, too good.

THE CATCH IN EXCEPTIONS

It is no trouble at all to find patriots with tales of woe to tell about the selective service act. It seems something always is coming up to illustrate the injustice of applying a rule to human beings without taking everything into consideration. There is no lack of extenuating circumstances.

It looks like a waste of time to put the youthful president of the New York Stock Exchange into the army at $21 a month, or any other price. Lots of Americans are worrying voluntarily about him. It would seem that his services would be worth at least the expense accounts that go with those $1 a year jobs in Washington. And baseball players, particularly big Henry Greenberg—surely the army could get along without them till the end of the season at least. There should be room for more exceptions.

Yes, there should be. But the problem is how to keep the unexceptional cases from taking advantage of the exceptions already established. The son of Sen. Elison D. (Cotton Ed) Smith of South Carolina, for instance. He claims his position as clerk to the senate committee on agriculture makes him a necessary man. When his board refused deferment, Papa Smith denounced the board for a "disgraceful and inhuman performance." Accounts differ, but Papa Smith seems to have at least two daughters, at least two sons-in-law, and at least one son on the federal payroll besides the one who is needed by the senate agriculture committee.

As Zarathustra or somebody said, "There never was a man who was not exceptional."

THE AFFAIRS of this day seem to respond to astral influences that may be responsible for dramatic crises or major reversals. However, there are signs of a favorable character which may be brought to bear on difficult and dangerous culminations. With alertness, efficiency, sound principles and worthy objectives such hazardous elements may be composed. By the exercise of restraint, calm judgment, patience and practical measures, difficulties may be turned to good account. A particularly keen mind with flashes of intuition or clever invention may save the day.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be on the threshold of year of far-reaching reversals, in which common sense, perseverance, sound tactics and acumen, backed up by clever mental ability or flashes of intuition may avert calamity. Rash and reckless conduct of any kind, running counter to the will of elders or superiors, might accent difficulties. Beware of physical dangers and violent emotions.

Dr. Clendingen will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

ease than lose a cow. I have a brother of 21, who has been in bed nearly six years with bovine tuberculosis. This neighborhood, almost to a man, reads the Halifax CHRONICLE and an article on the subject seems to me to be needed at the present time. Is it possible for human beings to get tuberculosis from cows?"

Government Inspection

It most certainly is possible for human beings to contract bovine tuberculosis. This was denied for a long time, but there is no question that the transmission occurs, especially in children, resulting in bone and joint tuberculosis, but it also can cause tuberculosis of the lungs.

The experience in the United States with the U. S. Department of Agriculture is a striking one. Some years ago in such agricultural and dairy states as Nebraska, the Dakotas and Utah, the tuberculosis death rate was very high. In 1905 the U. S. Department of Agriculture established governmental inspection of meat, and discovered the terrible roads tuberculosis was making in domestic animals.

In 1915 the United States began a campaign to eradicate tuberculosis in live stock and ordered that all cattle which reacted to the tuberculin test were to be slaughtered. As a result of that campaign in the same states of Nebraska, the Dakotas and Utah, the tuberculosis death rate is 15 per 100,000 population as compared to the general death rate in the country of 46.8. This reduction has been ascribed to the wiping out of tuberculosis among cattle.

This is in striking contrast to the experience in England. The English Ministry of Agriculture began a similar campaign in 1913, but whereas in the United States all cattle which reacted to the tuberculin test were slaughtered, in England the Ministry slaughtered only obviously ill and consumptive animals. The result of this up to 1937 was that in England the situation as regards tuberculosis among cattle was practically the same as in 1913.

Up to recent times 40 per cent of the cows in England had foci of tuberculosis and 6 per cent of all deaths from tuberculosis in children were of the bovine type. In the United States, owing to the rigorous enforcement of drastic laws, 75 per cent of dairy counties have reduced the incidence of tuberculosis in cattle to 1/2 of 1 per cent or less, and bovine tuberculosis in the United States has been reduced over 50 per cent and in many places is practically nonexistent.

ELUTOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendingen has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendingen, 235 E. 45th st., New York. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

BLAME YOUR LIVER IF—

If your liver doesn't secrete 20 to 30 ounces of bile every day into your intestines—constipation with its headaches, mental dullness and that "half-alive" feeling often result. So you see how important it is to keep bile flowing freely! And what finer aid could one desire than Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, used so successfully for years by Dr. P. M. Edwards for treating his patients for constipation and sluggish liver bile.

Olive Tablets are unsurpassed in effectiveness because they stimulate liver bile to help digest fatty foods, they tone up muscular intestinal action, at the same time help elimination. Being purely vegetable, Olive Tablets are wonderful! Test their supreme goodness TONIGHT! 15c, 30c, 60c. All drugstores.

Bette Davis and George Brent in "The Great Lie" at the State tonight through Saturday.

The tangled lives of a brilliant concert pianist, a daredevil flyer-explorer and a courageous girl who is the man's childhood sweetheart, form the plot of James Hilton's novel, "The Great Lie". The film of the same name gives Bette Davis, George Brent and Mary Astor the leading roles. Showing at the State tonight and Saturday, the picture is a modern-life drama, the story of a girl who risks one life to protect those she loves and nearly loses them. At the Grand tonight and Saturday are: A murder-mystery, "Shadows on the Stairs", with Frieda Inescourt, Paul Cavanaugh, Heather Angel, Bruce Lester and Miles Mander; and a Bill Elliott western-adventure, "The Wildcat Tucson", featuring Evelyn Young and Stanley Brown. In the first film two young people try to solve a series of mysterious happenings in the boarding house which is run by her parents. Another roomer on the track of the instigator of the happenings, is found murdered and police discover every one of the inhabitants of the house had a motive and opportunity to commit the crime.

Sorority Installs Officers; Mrs. S. M. Moore President

Installation of officers, with Mrs. S. M. Moore as new president, and the ritual of jewels ceremonies for two members followed a delightful dinner held by Beta Psi chapter of Beta Sigma Phi sorority last night.

The dinner was held at the Spanish Tavern, with the ceremonies at the new home of Mrs. Walter Fernal, N. Howard ave.

The long table was attractive with mirrored bowl of lavender stock and yellow rosebuds, the sorority flower, and tiny potted marigold plants in gold-covered pots. Place cards bore the black and gold sorority seal.

Courses of yellow rosebuds and yellow daisies were presented to the presidents, educational director and to Mrs. Fernal and Mrs. Donald Lease, who later received their jeweled pins of membership in impressive candlelight rites.

During the installation Mrs. Wilson presented the gavel to Mrs. Moore, who conducted the ritual. A miniature gold gavel, symbol of past presidency, was presented by Mrs. Moore for the chapter members to Mrs. Wilson, who has been the first president, serving the two years the chapter has been organized.

The new president announced her committees for the year, as follows: Social, Mrs. Rex Hunderdmark, Mrs. Kenneth Pinkerton, Mrs. Lease, Miss Martha Krauss and Mrs. Fernal; program, Miss Ruth Obernour, Mrs. Orein Naragon, Mrs. Henry Reese and Mrs. Moore.

Announcement was made of the annual state convention of the sorority June 7 and 8 in Lorain, where a part of the convention sessions and social activities will be held aboard a Canadian steamer. Those attending the convention will enjoy a boat trip during the weekend.

Arrangements for a Mother-Daughter party at the next session, May 8, featuring a special program and tea at the public library, were discussed. The social committee will be in charge.

Damascus Couple To Wed May 10

The date of the wedding of Miss Dorothy Israel and Charles Roberts of Damascus on May 10 was announced to Esquire's club members last night at the home of Miss Frances Lane in Damascus.

Cards were enjoyed, prizes going to Miss Louise Hans and Miss Betty Yates. Miss Gladys Whitacre won the door award.

Arrangements were discussed for a dinner party. Details have not been completed.

The table where lunch was served was centered with narcissus and lighted candles. Announcements of the wedding date were in rosebuds which were favors at the places.

The club will be entertained at the home of Miss Ruth Burton here on May 15.

Pythian Sisters Have Meeting

Cards, and a lunch at the Salem diner, followed the regular business meeting of Friendship temple No. 100, Pythian Sisters, at the hall Thursday night.

The next session will be held May 8.

Mrs. Blanche Seaton, degree staff captain, and several members of the lodge attended the annual inspection at Struthers last night.

Whist Club Members At Girscht Home

Whist club members had Mrs. Simon Miller as a guest yesterday at the home of Mrs. John Girscht, Liberty st.

Prizes were given to Mrs. Martin Polder and Mrs. Miller. Lunch was enjoyed later.

Mrs. Mary Lowry, Franklin st., will be hostess at her home May 15.

Miss Jean Stone Is Hostess

Miss Margaret Moff was guest of the Cadettes club last night at the home of Miss Jean Stone on Vine ave. Bridge prizes went to Miss Moff and Miss Peggy Stewart.

Lunch was enjoyed at Town Talk following the cards.

Miss Alice West, E. Third st., will entertain May 1.

Salem Music Study To Meet Monday

Salem Music Study club members will meet at 2:30 p. m. Monday at the library assembly room.

Mrs. Ellis Satterthwaite and Mrs. L. W. King are co-hostesses.

Ellsworth Road Club Is Entertained

Ellsworth Road club met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. D. Carr.

Nine members were present for the business meeting, lunch and social hour.

The club will meet May 15 at the home of Mrs. G. H. Rogers, Ellsworth rd.

Women Plan Party

Women of the Moose will hold a party at 8 tonight in the lodge hall. Bingo will be played.

Mrs. Eva McNeel, who has spent the last six months in Orlando, Fla., has returned to her home here.

Miss Helen French, who has spent the past three months in Orlando, Fla., and other points has returned home.

Gold Star Auxiliary Will Install

Mrs. Thurston Shinn, new president, and other officers of the Gold Star auxiliary will be installed at a meeting Monday evening in the V. F. W. hall, E. State st.

Miss Jeanette McDonald of East Liverpool, first state president, will be installing officer, appointed by State President Irene Lkeltz of Cleveland. Officers from Cleveland and East Liverpool are expected to attend.

All Salem members are asked to attend in uniform. A covered dinner will follow the installation.

Goshen Harmony Club Is Entertained

Mrs. Clyde Beeler of this city and Miss Eva Weingart of Riverside, Calif., were guests yesterday afternoon when Mrs. Robert Dunn entertained Goshen Harmony club associates at her home on E. Eighth st.

Refreshments were served after an informal afternoon.

The next meeting May 29 will be held at the home of Mrs. Ralph Ovington, Goshen rd.

W.F. LONES, FORMER JURIST, SUCCUMBS

Veteran Lawyer Ill For Several Months, Bed-fast a Week

Lones was elected to the common pleas bench in 1926 to fill the unexpired term of James G. Moore. In 1928 Judge Lones was re-elected to a full six-year term, and was again re-elected in 1934. Due to failing health he declined to run last year and was succeeded by Joel H. Sharp of Salem.

Presided at Lenzel Trial

During his career on the bench, Judge Lones presided at many prominent trials, including that of the former Canton police chief, S. R. Lenzel, who was charged with conspiracy in connection with the Don Mellett murder case. The trial was transferred to the Lisbon courthouse as a result of a ruling for a change in venue.

Judge Lones was a member of the Columbiana County Bar association, the Southern Bar association of the county, the Ohio State and Tennessee bars and was active in fraternal circles. He was a member of the Elks, Masons, I. O. O. F., Kiwanis club and the East Liverpool Country club.

He was also a member of the East Liverpool First Baptist church and was on the board of trustees of the church; served as assistant moderator; had been Sunday school superintendent and had taught the married men's class of the church.

In political circles, Judge Lones was a staunch Republican.

Surviving are his wife, the former Lettie Southwick of Dayton, Tenn., whom he married in 1893 at Springfield, Mo.; five brothers, Jesse W., George E. and Harvey Lones of Williamsport; Harry E. of Clarkson, and Samuel A. Lones of Paso Robles, Calif.; four sisters, Mrs. Gertrude Glenn of Williamsport; Mrs. Lena Hanson, and the Misses Lillian and Dora Lones of Lisbon.

Funeral Monday

The funeral will be held at the First Presbyterian church in Wellsville at 2:30 p. m. Monday in charge of Rev. E. E. Sowards of the East Liverpool Baptist church and Rev. E. L. Temple, pastor of the Presbyterian church. Interment will be in Spring Hill cemetery.

Members of the Columbiana County Bar association are expected to meet prior to the service and then to attend the rites in a body.

Friends may call at the Lones home Sunday evening.

But he said that for a year and a half vessels of the neutrality patrol had been operating as far flung as a thousand miles into the Atlantic from the eastern shore of Maryland. He said there were erroneous reports and assumptions at the time that the patrol was operating approximately 300 miles from the American coast.

For a year and a half, Mr. Roosevelt said, the patrol has been extended here and pulled in there. It is being extended and will be extended from time to time, he asserted.

He was glad, he said, that a reporter asked how far the extension might go. It was then that he declared it would be as far into the seven seas as was necessary for hemispheric defense.

He repeated several times the thought of hemispheric defense in response to questions about the functions of the patrol. What it would do if it encountered a belligerent vessel, and whether it would be allowed to use belligerent means was not made clear.

Not Confined to Atlantic

The President did not say a patrol would not necessarily be confined to the Atlantic.

As a matter of common sense, Mr. Roosevelt said, back in 1939 the area of patrol in the Atlantic was closer in because there seemed to be little danger of attack on such places as Bermuda, Newfoundland, Greenland, or Trinidad.

Since then, he continued, events have shown an attack is more possible today than it was then. Furthermore, the President said, the United States has valuable American lives and property located where it did not have them in 1939.

He spoke of Greenland, Newfoundland, Bermuda, of Canada which the United States has obligation under the Monroe doctrine to protect against any non-American nation, and of the Bahamas, Antigua and others of the British West Indies, and British Guiana.

where this country also has established bases.

(Greenland has been formally embraced within the hemisphere defense system.)

The President was told that three of his cabinet officers seemed to be concerned over aid to Britain, and he was asked how this tied in with his press conference remarks. He said he did not know. And he dodged a question whether the country had anything better in mind, than a convoy system, to insure delivery of war supplies to Britain.

LEETONIA ENTRY IN LATIN CONTEST

Two Leetonia High school students have submitted essays in the prize essay contest conducted by the Ohio Classical Conference for students enrolled in second year Latin classes. The two chosen from those written by the Latin II students in Leetonia are: "Caesar, the Patriot" by John Carlisle, and "The Mighty Caesar" by Dorothy Jean Fire.
The winners will be announced at the annual meeting of the conference next October. A prize of $25 will be given to the winner of the contest. The winner of second place will receive $10 and the writers of the next three papers will receive honorable mention.
In addition, the Hiedesheim vase, engraved with the school's name, will be awarded for one year to the school in which the winner is enrolled.

"These gentlemen and their ilk," it was added, "make themselves self-appointed enemies of the Axis and indeed, one might say, of the European continent, but with the American people we have no quarrel."

No Thought of Attack

Authorizes sources said: "We have no thought whatever of attacking the American people just as we know the American people do not want to attack us. No normal human being—only someone 150 per cent demented—can imagine such things."

"The attitude of those in America who now speak as Knox does shows, however, how wretched Britain's condition must be. By conjuring up alleged dangers of German designs on America interventionist circles are attempting to drag the rest of the United States into their camp."

DEATHS

HOWARD D. SOULE

Howard D. Soule of Narberth, Pa., 37, member of the Pennsylvania State constabulary at Philadelphia, died Monday at a hospital in Bryn Mawr, near Philadelphia, following an illness of more than a month.

The son of the late Harry L. Soule and Annie E. Soule, the former Annie E. Kerns of near Winona, he was born at New Bloomfield, Pa., and was employed at New Waterford at one time.

Surviving are his wife, Mary; three children; his mother, Mrs. Annie T. Soule; and four brothers, John K. Harrisburg, Pa., Orin A. of Wyoming, Pa., Harold F. and D. Bruce of New Bloomfield, Pa.; and four sisters, Mrs. Helen Britcher and Mrs. Mary W. Smith of New Bloomfield, Pa., Mrs. Edna M. Whipple of New Germantown, Pa., and Mrs. Alice O'Donel of Conestoga, Pa.; several nieces and nephews. Orin H. Kerns and Mrs. Alice K. Volow of Salem are uncle and aunt.

Funeral service will be held at the home Thursday.

C. O. MORRIS

C. O. Morris, 82, retired farmer, died at 10:40 p. m. yesterday at his home, 274 N. Ellsworth ave., following a year's illness.

Mr. Morris, who retired 20 years ago, had lived in Salem for the last year, coming here from New Garden. Born near Alliance on the East State rd., he had spent practically his entire lifetime in the vicinity.

Surviving are his wife, Ida; one daughter, Mrs. Olive Barnes at home; two sons, Bert of Columbus and Walter of Alliance; nine grandchildren and one great grandchild. Funeral service will be held at 2 p. m. Sunday at the Cassaday-Turk funeral home in Alliance. Burial will be in Quaker Hill cemetery at Sebring. Friends may call at the funeral home from 7 to 9 p. m. Saturday.

MRS. ORLAND E. WHINNERY

Mrs. Lois Whinnery, wife of Orland E. Whinnery, died at her home in New Philadelphia Thursday afternoon, of complications.

She is survived by her husband, son of the late Joseph B. Whinnery of Winona; one son, Joseph; two grandchildren; and three sisters. Funeral service will be held at the home in New Philadelphia at 1 p. m. Sunday. Burial will be at Wooddale cemetery, near Winona, at 4 p. m. with a short service there.

Is Held By Church

COLUMBIANA, April 25.—A congregational fellowship supper was held Wednesday evening at Grace Reformed church, with new members as special guests. Rev. W. R. Gobrecht welcomed the new members and showed colored pictures of various phases of work done by the denominational missions. A musical program, in charge of Clair King, included a bassoon solo by David Culp; vocal solo, Mary Burke; trumpet solo, Robert Duibel; and trumpet duet, Messrs. Duibel and King.

The Men's club of the Presbyterian church enjoyed an "Open Forum" meeting at the church Thursday evening. Chester Burdick, the newly elected president, presided at the business meeting. Lunch was a concluding pleasure.

Mrs. John Orr is confined to her home by illness.

"Church Night" was observed at the Methodist church Thursday evening. The meeting opened with a coverish dinner at 6:30 after which a program was presented.

Miss Oesch Honored

Miss Jane Oesch was honor guest when her mother, Mrs. Harry R. Oesch, entertained a group of friends at a dinner party at their home Thursday evening. The party announced the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Oesch. A dinner was served at eight with covers laid for ten. The table was attractive with a center bouquet of pink and white snapdragons. Miniature place card favors were tied with white satin ribbons leading to the bouquet in which were concealed tiny scrolls revealing the secret, "Jane and Forrest." Aug. 29. Following the dinner "800" was enjoyed at two tables. Out of town guests were club associates from Youngstown.

The Columbian county Institute of the W. C. T. U. will be held in the United Presbyterian church at East Palestine, Tuesday, April 29. The morning session will start at 10 o'clock. A box lunch will be enjoyed at noon and the afternoon session will open at 1 o'clock.

Students Before Court

COLUMBUS, April 25.—The student court of Ohio State university has taken under advisement the cases of six students questioned about distribution of handbills for a forbidden campus meeting. Findings will be presented to Dr. Howard L. Bevis, university president, for action.

The six are Robert Northrup, chairman of the Committee for Democracy of Education, Mary Manning of Chesterland, O., David H. Rosen and David E. Friedlander of Cleveland, Bernard N. Krasnik, of Glassport, Pa., and George D. Currie of Newark.

Painful Experience

LISBON, April 25.—A shepherd dog owned by James Webber of near Rogers yesterday discovered—to his sorrow—that a porcupine, a habitant of the Allegheny mountains, had wandered into Columbian county farmyards.

The dog, whining in agony from porcupine quills which protruded from his head, face and shoulders, scurried back to the Webber farm-house after a short jaunt into a nearby woods.

"Shep" was taken to a Lisbon veterinarian who removed a total of 200 quills from the dog's body.

Figures Reveal

Tisher sought to further bolster this county's distressed financial condition and secured an audit of the Home records from June 30, 1940, to December 31, 1940, the period not covered in the examiners' report and immediately preceding the adoption of the new rate of maintenance on January 1, 1941.

The audit was made by Auditor Tisher and his deputies, James Cavanaugh and Daniel Webster, accountants and Auditor Lester Lash and Deputy Halter of Stark county. On the basis of the new per capita payment of maintenance costs for the six months amounted to $2,791.69, while $230.13 was credited this county as excessive cash receipts during the same period. The report, as submitted to Auditor Tisher, is as follows:

"In checking the vouchers several errors of classification of expense items were noted but no reclassification of these items was made. Under welfare expense there was approximately $6,000 in wages which were adjusted for the purpose of this statement and reclassified as salary of employees.

"The laundry bill approximates $300 per month, and it does seem that this work could be performed more economically at the home if proper facilities were provided.

"In submitting the payroll figures, the net amount paid employees after deduction for public employees retirement system and hospital insurance was used rather than the gross payroll, which understated the operating cost. The proper adjustment was made to establish the correct figure. Likewise, no record was made nor the cost included for the county share for the public employees retirement system and this amount was adjusted to reflect the correct cost figures.

"The representatives of the auditor's office from Stark county did not bring the vouchers paid by their office to the home for inspection. This made it necessary to use a 'dummy' voucher kept at the home and in many cases there was no bill or detail attached to the dummy voucher which would allow a suitable check on the voucher. This was particularly true of petty cash items as none of these vouchers carried supporting data.

"The repair charges for the autos and trucks at the home are of a noticeable amount. Upon inquiry it was learned that there are four passenger cars, one truck and one school bus operated by the home. "It is to be noted that the Ekkert dairy has been supplying skim milk to the home at 10 cents per gallon in large quantities. The bill is rendered monthly and varies in amount from $150 to $180. The charge of 10 cents per gallon seems above market price when purchased in such quantities.

"A monthly bill is paid to a Mrs. Charles Effinger, Georgetown road, Canton, which amounts to $350 to $400 monthly. Inquiry revealed that she maintains from 17 to 20 children at her home and is allowed $20 per month for each child. It was stated she maintains many of the physically or mentally deficient children under this agreement.

"The following bills were included in the operating expenses of the home which were disputable as to whether they should be classed as operating expenses or as additions and betterments. It was agreed to include them as operating cost, subject to adjustment upon the receipt of the attorney general's opinion governing the classification of these disbursements. The bills include a new Chevrolet, $400; heating survey, $250; refrigeration unit, $240; new sink, $78.40.

"Summarizing the results of the examination, we find that Columbiana county has overpaid bills in the amount of $2,791.69 from July 1, 1940, to Dec. 31, 1940. Likewise Columbiana county has received $230.13 excess cash receipts during the same period, resulting in a net overpayment by Columbiana county of $2,560.96 for the six months July 1, to Dec. 31, 1940."

"There is a previous finding by State Examiner Preston of the bureau of inspection and supervision of public offices, up to June 30, 1940, in which Columbiana county has overpaid bills in the amount of $3,754.24.

"The sum of these overpayments by Columbiana county total $6,315.20 which amount is now due Columbiana county from Stark county. This amount was agreed upon by Mr. Lash and Mr. Halter, auditor and deputy of Stark county."

FDR recalls Vandalism, Banished, For Treason, To Confederacy

he was sorry to say that some of those of whom he spoke were present in the room.

The attitude they have adopted, he said, is that there is a new order in the world, a new form of government.

Out of one side of their mouths, he asserted, they say they do not like dictatorships, and out of the other that dictatorships are going to defeat democracy and might as well be accepted.

The attitude he said, is held by a minority of people in the country. He said he had read editorials or columns which had said there had always been conquerors, such as Alexander the Great, Caesar, Napoleon and two others — Cromwell who conquered England, and George Washington who conquered the United States.

The President said he was awfully sorry that people with such a mentality as to lump Washington and Cromwell with the others were in such high places they could write or talk.

tinued to concentrate on the ports and shipping of southern Greece in furious bomb assaults.

The Greek government reported Nazi air raids on harbors scattered along the southern coast and on Greek islands offshore. It said two hospital ships had been sunk and a refugee vessel bearing women and children to island sanctuary from the war had been bombed and set afire, killing many.

Claim Shipping Losses

German commentators said the Nazi high command claimed a total of 89,000 tons of shipping—all in readiness to carry the B. E. F. and its equipment back to Egyptian bases—had been sunk by German air raiders in three days.

The aerial war also continued over the English channel.

The British said their planes attacked naval bases in northwest Germany overnight and the Germans said their sank three merchant ships totalling 14,000 tons and damaged another of 4,000 tons—presumably in a convoy off the British coast—and raided an English south coast city.

There were no reports in Britain, however, of any concentrated air attacks such as had been made on Plymouth during the previous three nights and no air alarm sounded in London.

Sentence Suspended

TIFFIN, April 25—Grove Bott, treasurer of the Postoria United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, was given a suspended one-to-10 year sentence in Ohio penitentiary after he admitted using $400 from union funds for his wife's operation. Common Pleas Judge Ralph Sugrue granted the suspended sentence, at the request of union officials.

U. S. Army's First Armored Unit Is Praised By Officers

By GRIFFING BANCROFT
International News Service Correspondent
WASHINGTON—"This is the hardest hitting force in the world, with more fire power—man per gun—than any other organization anywhere."

The words were those of Major General Bruce Magruder, spoken as he watched his command—America's first armored division and her armor the Panzer units of Europe—in maneuvers at Fort Knox, Ky. The mock attack began with low flying bombing and observation airplanes, feeling out and "softening up" the enemy. Then came motorcycles, bantam cars, and scout cars, a machine gunning reconnaissance unit to explore hostile positions from the ground. Heavy guns boomed in the background. The enemy's location had been radioed back and field artillery units were laying down a barrage.

With an earth-shaking roar came the heart of the division—several hundred light and medium tanks. Spitting fire from 37-millimeter cannons and machine guns, these land battleships pierced the "enemy" lines and went on. Infantrymen soon arrived at the spot the tanks had passed and up rumbled supply trucks and other equipment for an unopposed march. The motorized weapons had opened the hole—only the doughboys could seize and hold it as a permanent new position.

Improvement on Nazis
Such in outline is the armored attack, admittedly developed by the Nazi Panzer units and copied—officers say with improvements—by this country. Only two things, military scientists declare, stop it: an overwhelming defense force or terrain.

There are places where a mechanized unit cannot go. Even if rivers can be bridged, deep canyons, swamps, heavy forests, will stop the vehicles. In every theoretical problem, armored corps officers beg to know "where are we going to fight?"

The answer to this is the horse. In far away Fort Bliss, Tex., a similar mock attack was staged by the First Cavalry division. The procedure was the same, but the terrain was rougher. Cavalrymen, the traditional hard soldiers of the army, do not ask where, but "when are we going to fight?" Cavalry units today are completely motorized. Horses and men are transported in trucks and only take the ground for actual fighting and scouting. While tanks in attack can go up to 50 miles per hour, a whole armored division moves normally at 22 miles an hour. Cavalry divisions can go a little faster.

Motorized Foot Division
There is one other type of rapid mobile unit in America's now army the Fourth Infantry division at Fort Benning, Ga. This is a completely motorized foot division, able to follow cavalry or armored attacks rapidly, but like the tank units, limited by terrain. It recently travelled 200 miles in a day, using 50,000 gallons of gasoline. These divisions, averaging some 600 men each, are part of Amer-

Extra vitamins and iron in every food you bake with

Enriched Pillsbury's Best Flour

● THREE PRECIOUS FOOD ELEMENTS have been added to Pillsbury's Best Flour—Vitamin B₁, iron, and Vitamin P-P. Your children need these vitamins every day for proper growth. Your whole family needs them every day so their bodies can make proper use of energy foods (carbohydrates). This is essential to sound nerves, good appetite, the ability to thrive on hard physical work.

Now, at last, here are vitamins within the means of every family! For flour... even the finest flour... is one of the cheapest foods known to man!

Remember... good-baking flour, like Pillsbury's Best, is still the same good-baking flour after it has been enriched—but inferior flour, even if it is enriched, is still inferior flour. And remember something else—enrichment itself must be done carefully, so that each bag will be uniformly enriched. The same strict milling standards which make Pillsbury's Best a fine "baking" flour also make it a uniformly enriched flour!

Uncle Sam asked for this enriched flour. Why is it important to national defense?

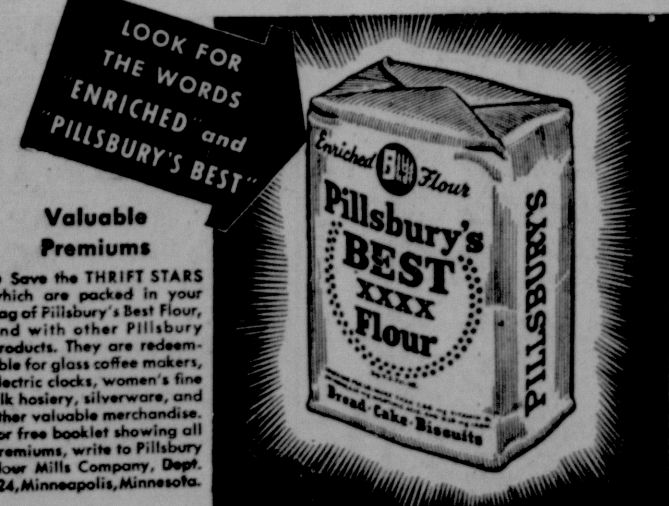

Pillsbury answers your questions about this new enrichment of white flour

● You understand that modern science has perfected a way to add precious food elements to your "daily bread." But just what is being added? What does it mean to you? Here, briefly, are the answers to those natural questions of yours:

1. Vitamin B₁ (thiamin) is added—helps the body make proper use of energy foods (carbohydrates), which is essential to: (a) Proper growth in children, (b) Good appetite for both young and old, (c) Sound nerves, (d) Ability to thrive on hard physical work.
2. Iron is added—helps build red blood.
3. Vitamin P-P is added—another member of the Vitamin B complex, which also overcomes certain deficiencies in the diet.

● Every pound of Pillsbury's Best is now enriched with these three food essentials.

★ It's the same fine, dependable PILLSBURY'S BEST... now enriched!
★ NO CHANGE IN FLAVOR ★ NO CHANGE IN APPEARANCE
★ NO CHANGE IN BAKING QUALITIES

The students of Salem Business College have returned to their studies after a week of spring vacation.

Theda Rowley had a visitor from Plymouth, Mich., her cousin, Dorothy Kress, who spent three days with Theda.

Marjorie Magann went to her home in Buena Vista, Va., to spend her vacation in the home of her parents. Des Crawford visited her parents in Wellsville.

Junior Myers spent Easter Sunday in Columbus with college friends.

Mary Frances Hilgendorf spent a day in Cleveland.

Mrs. Rhea Gilson took a trip to Washington, D. C., and a drive across the Skyline Drive.

Rachel Birkhimer, a graduate, spent the weekend in the home of Nona Davis of Leontia.

Mrs. Ronald Mackall took a trip to St. Louis for a few days.

Miss Helen Cannon of Pittsburgh, visited school Tuesday with Mary P. Chesnut.

THE BIG WORD FOR BEAUTY, STYLE AND PRESERVATION IS . . .

PAINT

Good Paint

After much experimenting with paint ingredients, the Pittsburgh Paint Company has developed a paint with greater preservation ability—more beautiful color tones—greater style!

Thus, they have made Pittsburgh Paint world-famous. They have made it the preferred paint among house painters. Because of its merits the S. B. Hardware has chosen to sell it.

Adda Firestone visited Lois Rupert at Baldwin-Wallace college at Berea.

Four more students of the college have accepted positions. They are: Mary Pierce as multi-graphic operator in Wadsworth; Evelyn Rollins as bookkeeper for the Federal Furniture Co., Youngstown; Delmus Woolf, in the office of the Deming Co.; Gladys Saviers in the office of the Gem Clay Forming Co. in Sebring.

The Sigma Iota Rho Sorority met Wednesday at school during the noon hour. Plans were completed for the induction of new members. It was decided to modify the original program for the pledges.

Hazel Riehl was elected treasurer for the rest of this term. Mary Pierce, who was formerly treasurer, resigned when she accepted a position in Wadsworth.

Lover Come Back

by BARRETT WILLOUGHBY

SYNOPSIS
Fifty years ago, Captain "Dynamite" Danny O'Moore, master of the sealer, "Glory of the West," was in love with Jacqueline Reynold, daughter of Captain Ramps Reynold, terror of Alaska seal poachers. A lovers' quarrel parted them, and shortly after, Reynold, caught in "Dynamite" red-handed, shot him. "Glory" was full of seal pelts. O'Moore always felt that Jacqueline betrayed him. She was the only one who could have copied his charts of the coastline showing his hide-outs. "The Glory" was sold at Government auction. "Dynamite" never told anyone about it, not even his lovely granddaughter, Sandra, for whom he now manages O'Moore Seiners, Ltd., one of Alaska's leading fisheries. A strange concern, Baranov Packers, has an option to take over the late John Bates' contract for O'Moore's complete catch. It must be exercised by 11 a. m. the next day and a $30,000 advance paid. Kemp Starbuck, young president of American Packers, and an admirer of Sandra, is also anxious to get the fish. "Dynamite" disapproves of Kemp's outfit because it employs too many orientals. He believes Japan is charting the Alaskan coastline under the guise of "fishery." So O'Moore is determined that no one but the United States will get his maps. From his sky-top home, "Echo House," the veteran watches a sudden spurt of activity on the waterfront. Suddenly, his heart skips a beat, for there was the battered hulk of his old command, "The Glory," converted into a floating cannery, captained by her foster son, Jean. That was disconcerting for Sandra; Jean had been her childhood playmate and, all through the years, she had carried him in her heart. Summoning Jean before him, "Dynamite" declares he will not sell him his catch, but the young man plans to hold him to his contract. On the way out, he asks Sandra to be in the cupola of Echo House (her home) that night at nine as he has something important to tell her. When they were children, John Winthrop, the Forester man, revealed to them the strange acoustic qualities of the cupola; someone talking from a certain point a mile offshore could be distinctly heard in it. It was Jean's and Sandra's method of contact when their families' feud kept them apart.

CHAPTER TEN
When Sandra returned to the sitting room, where she expected to find her grandfather, nursing a mighty rage, she was surprised to see him talking cheerfully into the telephone to his cronies, Tom Jarvis, president of the Merchants' and Fishermen's Bank.
"Ho! Ho!" The Captain laughed into the telephone. "Ye should be snip what holiday I mean! Man hear, don't ye know 'tis the name day of the great Alexander Baranov, first Governor of the Russian for colonies in Alaska? . . . Sure, 'tis no legal holiday, but ye'd not be flyin' in the face of sacred tradition, would ye? . . . But 'tis your own bank man, ye can close it when ye like! And ye can have the Tanya flagship of me fleet, to take ye out there where the king salmon are that hungry they're leapin' for the naked hook. . . . What's that? Ye can't? Listen, now, ye dumb Cornishman—" The captain's voice took on a steely ring. "If ye value me friendship, and the O'Moore account, ye'll—Oh, ye get me, eh! . . . Well, thanks, Tom. . . . Sure, me boy. Call on me any time ye have snakes of your own to kill."
He eased the instrument back into its cradle and sat, grimly contemplating a moment before he noticed Sandra's presence. "Ah, Sondy! Ye did well to show that young deck-walloper the door before I lost me temper entirely." She felt faint surprise at the genial heartiness of his tone. "Now, I'll be havin' another wee nip of the rum, darlin'. Never mind the water this time."

All through dinner Sandra was divided between wondering what Jean Reynold had to tell her and assuring herself that she didn't care enough about it to go to the cupola to find out. Today had been the most eventful, the most disillusioning she had ever known, yet, paradoxically, she felt a quickening of the current of life, a stirring anticipation of something thrilling waiting for her in the near future. She wanted to be alone to think about this, but Liane, after dining in her room, had come downstairs. Now, languid and exotic in black velvet, the older girl was trailing Sandra from room to room, smoking and chatting.
"Sitka, ever since I can remember, has always been a dull hole, Sandra. Why you, with your money, ever came back here to live is a mystery to me. After knowing life in the outside world, too. College, Europe. Everything gay. Certainly, there's never been a man in the place that either you or I would consider marrying. However, this Starbuck has distinct possibilities. His manners are those of a real Southern gent, and he must have money, holding the position he does. I suppose you two are good pals—both being interested in historic stuff and all that?"
"We're good friends," answered Sandra absently. The clock had just struck half past eight. In half an hour Jean Reynold would be out there in the bay, talking across the water. The thought sent her moving restlessly from the library into the spacious old drawing room. She was thoroughly annoyed when Liane tagged after her.
"Who is this other chap who comes to the house?" asked Liane.
"What other chap?" Sandra was at the old square piano sorting music that had already been sorted.
"Don't try to hold out on me, darlin'. I saw him leaving the house this afternoon—tall, dark, white pull-over, and a high and mighty walk."
"That must have been Captain Jean Reynold."
"Not Miss Jacqueline's boy? What luck! We were in school here together, until Miss Jack sent him out to the States. But how come, Sandra? Aren't your respective families sort of Montague-and-Capuletish?" Liane rested her folded arms on the piano with the air of one set for a long chat.

Sandra answered shortly. "He came today to see Dynamite on business. He's superintendent of a floating cannery that's just been moored to the Bates' dock."
"Um-m-m-m. I must run down tomorrow and renew our childhood friendship. The lad's a complete knockout. But of course you never noticed that. Honestly, darlin', you might as well be in a cloister for all the—Hey! Be careful. You've torn that sheet of music in two."
It was true. Liane's patronizing tone, her frank admiration for Jean and what it implied, had irked Sandra beyond control. Moreover, it had resulted in a decision. She would go to the cupola now, come what may.
"By the way, Sandra, didn't Kemp say he was coming over tonight to bring you a bronze plaque, or something?"
"Good heavens!" thought Sandra aghast. She had forgotten that possibility. It was a quarter to nine. He might arrive any moment. She must get away at once. Liane's remark had given her an idea for escape. "Yes," she said aloud. "Would you mind waiting here to receive him, Liane? I want to run upstairs and do a few little things for—For Dynamite before he goes to bed. Here—sit in this easy chair. The late magazines are there on the table. . . . There you are."

Sandra forced herself to walk from the room, but once out of Liane's sight, she ran up the stairs as fast as her feet could carry her. Alone in the cupola she stood looking out through the openings, conscious of the scene of peace which the height and space and sweep of county always brought her.
This was the hour that had always brought romance near to her—that lover she had fashioned from dreams. Daring, wise, gentle, strong. Capable of commanding dangerous men, yet yielding to one woman—herself.

Tonight she felt, poignantly, that never again could the magic of twilight bring back that dream. It had died today in the irony and disillusionment of Jean Reynold's return.
The luminous dial of her wrist-watch gave her eight minutes to nine. Jean should be coming in sight now. She leaned forward tensely, scanning the dim shimmering water between the two islands.
The channel was empty. Nothing moved there.
Her nerves, grown taut with the concentrated intensity of her effort, seemed ready to snap when she heard a faint splashing sound far off. Holding her breath, she strained her eyes through the clear, amethyst dusk. Was something moving out there between the twin islands? . . . It was. . . . A dim canoe came gliding out from the shadows. It came to a standstill. Jean!
"Hey!" Behind her Liane's voice shattered the silence. "What's the big idea, mooning up here by yourself? I've been looking all over for you."
Sandra turned. "I—oh—I came up for—a breath of fresh air," she stammered, weak with sudden panic. It was five minutes to nine. She must get rid of Liane before Jean began to speak. But how?
"Well, old dear, your boy friend's arrived with your present. He—"
"Hi, Sandra!" Kemp came briskly into the cupola. His eyes were bright in his eager face. "I've got it—the Russian plaque. It's downstairs. I knew—"
"Oh, Kemp! The plaque!" Sandra hoped the hysterical note in her voice might be mistaken for joy. She acted instinctively, scarcely aware of what she was saying. "Come along, you two, let's go right down." She caught their hands and drew them to the door of the cupola. "Hurry darlings! I can scarcely wait to see it!"

When Sandra managed an excuse to absent herself from the drawing room for a few minutes, it was five minutes past nine. She raced up the stairs, hoping desperately that something had delayed Jean's talking. But when she stepped out into the cupola she heard his guarded tones, blurred for an instant by the thumping of her heart. Then his words came clearly, referring, obviously to something he had explained during her absence. " . . . Had me puzzled, from the first. But after I left you this afternoon, I placed it. Then the situation came all too clear. I don't want to frighten you, little one, but it might lead to anything—even murder. I don't dare say more now. But I beg of you, be on your guard—your and your grandfather. . . . About myself, now that I've told you my plans, and you understand, I'm hoping for your trust and friendship—more than anything else. But, with or without that, I'm pledged to go through with what I have to do here for Aunt Jack. There's no alternative."
"If knowing that, you still have faith in me, prove it tomorrow when I come to see your grandfather. I'll be there early—a quarter to eleven. Meet me at the door. Before I go upstairs we'll arrange for a later talk about this other matter that has me worried. If you are not there—well, I'll understand that it's thumbs down. Should that happen, I beg of you, once more—watch. Be on your guard against—"
The break was startlingly abrupt. Then, as if he were singing to himself, his voice came across the night making Sandra forget, momentarily, everything he had been telling her:—
"Wild geese cry, flying high
Where silver spruce and hemlock sigh
The campfire's glow lifts high,
Drops low,
My heart goes out to you."
The old Thimble song of their childhood—signaling an interruption!

The words were the same—yet not the same. The boy's voice had become a man's rich, deep poignant. It vibrated in her heart. It put a new glamour into the Northern night. It made her feel the freedom, the enchanted loneliness of the wilderness. It made her feel the beauty and the longing that only lovers know.
When it ended, she stood, wondering at herself. Was she being foolishly romantic again—or had he sung the verse not only as a signal, but also as—a love song?

Cincinnati Reds Beginning To Look Like World Champs Again

WINNING GAMES AGAIN BY 1 RUN, ERRORLESS BALL

Evidence Begins to Point To Third Straight Pennant

(By Associated Press)
ST. LOUIS, April 25.—It may be said with some slight assurance that the Cincinnati Reds are beginning to look like the World Champion Cincinnati Reds again.

Evidence:
Item: Fireman Joe Beggs has started saving games again and sets the credit for yesterday's 3-2 job over the St. Louis Cardinals just for pitching a couple of innings.

Item: It was another one-run victory, much akin to the 41 the Reds had last year, and their second of 1941.

Item: The winning run came in the ninth inning, a time the Reds must be watched.

Item: Not a Red is among the five leading hitters of the National league, but the team has won five straight games.

Item: It was another errorless ball game.

Of course, at this early date the evidence does not point conclusively to a third straight pennant, but the pattern could be established.

Derringer Pulls Muscle

For six innings yesterday, fiddler Bill McGee, seemed to have the eye on the Reds. He gave them no hits for five and the two-run lead piled up off Paul Derringer in the first and third innings began to look as big as a barn. Paul himself went out in the fifth with a pulled muscle.

Then Ernie Lombardi singled with one away in the seventh, moved along on Harry Craft's walk, and let Johnny Vander Meer run for him. Both runners advanced on a passed ball and Vandy scored on Eddie Joost's single. Craft followed him in with the tying run on an infield out.

The ninth opened with Craft working McGee for another walk. Joost got an infield single. The rally seemed dying when Beggs' attempted sacrifice failed and Bill Werber flied out, but Lonnie Frey lined a double to the scoreboard for the ball game.

Gene Thompson is manager Bill McKee's choice to continue the good work today, with Lon Warnerke, who took down the Reds so handily opening day, doing the pitching for the Cards. Gene didn't last in his first start, against St. Louis.

Pirates Edge Cubs On Collins' Single

(By Associated Press)
Frankie Frisch's insurance policy returned a nice fat dividend check to the Pittsburgh Pirates today, and no one was happier than the "policy," himself.

For this policy, better known to the trade as Jim "The Ripper" Collins, not only paid off when it counted most—in the clutch—but he did it against the Chicago Cubs, the club that let the policy "lapse" by sending him to the minors a couple of years ago.

It must have warmed the hearts of both Frankie and Rip, that pinch-single Collins delivered in the 11th inning yesterday which gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 2-1 decision over the Cubs. Rip thus got at least a small piece of his revenge.

The win didn't affect the standings in the league, for the Pirates are well down in the lists and the New York Giants, setting the pace, were rained out at Boston.

Yankees On Top Again
Over in the American league, however, the top spots were reshuffled and dealt over again and there were your old pounding pals, the Yankees, right on top of the heap. A combination of Marius Russo's seven-hit southpawing and two three-run innings, one of them produced by Charley Keller's homer, gave the Yanks a 6-3 decision over the Boston Red Sox.

This setback dropped the Sox from the No. 1 slot right down to a tie for third place with the Cleveland Indians, who were nosed out 2-1 by the Chicago White Sox. Lefty Thornton Lee bested just-as-Lefty Al Smith in this one and the win boosted Jimmy Dykes' wonder-men into second place.

"Hot Potato" Luke Hamlin turned in his second straight hailing "nifty" to give the revamped Brooklyn Dodgers a 6-1 win over the futility Phillies. On top of his five-hitters of last Saturday, the "Hot Potato" tossed a four-hitter this time.

Lonnie Frey's ninth inning double sent the winning run home to enable the Cincinnati Reds to down the St. Louis Cardinals 3-2.

Tommy Bridges' steady elbowing and a two-run triple by Frankie Chouchier, in celebration of his graduation from the bench, gave the Detroit Tigers a 4-2 edge over the St. Louis Browns. Washington and the Philadelphia Athletics were sidelined by cold weather.

BOWLING RESULTS

Three matches in the Commercial loop, at Grate's, were settled in an easy fashion last night, all via the forfeit route. The decisions went to the Jaycee All Stars, People's Lumber, and Zimmerman Olds, with the Polo club, Hilliard Markets and Bliss, respectively, as the losers.

Crecent machines maintained their hefty lead over the Washington Odd Fellows, the Machines taking two out of three. L. Spear and A. Spear of the Odd Fellows had games of 214 and 204, while O. Calladine turned in a 209 for the Crecent.

Ralph Gregg held the limelight as the Palace Lunch took three in a row from the Trades Class. Gregg helped the Lunches with games of 212 and 205, along with a 171. Bishop shot a 202.

L. Stokes of the Eagles cracked out a 239 in his first game but his team dropped two out of three to Smith Creamery.

The Lunches' clean sweep edged them into second place, half a game ahead of the Odd Fellows, while the Jaycees moved up a notch ahead of the Trades Class. Positions were unchanged in the Electric Furnace circuit at the Masonic alleys in last night's keeling.

The Structural took two from the Electricians and the Purchasers an equal number from the Transformers.

Draftsmen won three from the Office, with Wright of the Office men getting a 209.

Wernet of the Shippers smacked out a 601 series as his team copped three from the Machinists. He piled up scores of 231, 170 and 200. W. Stewart of the same club had a 221 in the second game.

Electricians won two from the Draftsmen and Vandy scored on Eddie Joost's single. Craft followed him in with the tying run on an infield out.

The ninth opened with Craft working McGee for another walk. Joost got an infield single. The rally seemed dying when Beggs' attempted sacrifice failed and Bill Werber flied out, but Lonnie Frey lined a double to the scoreboard for the ball game.

SERIES OPENERS PROVE JINX FOR TRIBE THIS YEAR

Indians Have Lost Four to Date; Bagby To Face White Sox

CHICAGO, April 25.—The Cleveland Indians have lost four games this season and every defeat has been in the opener of a series. Chicago kept the jinx going yesterday by beating Al Smith, 2 to 1.

With the psychological handicap gone the Redskins nominated Jim Bagby to face the White Sox today in the finale of an abbreviated series. Bagby was defeated by Detroit in his first start this year, 4 to 2. The pale horse picked veteran Ted Lyons for mound chores.

Smith allowed Chicago only three hits, but lost the ball game when he pitched a triple to Dario Lodigiani in the seventh inning with two men on base. Luke Appling started the rally with a single and was forced by Joe Kuhel, but the tribal southpaw walked Moose Solters to set up the winning runs.

Score In Eighth
The Indians picked up their only run in the eighth on pinch-hitter Murray Howell's single, an infield out and a one-base blow by Lou Boudreau.

Ray Mack singled in the ninth, but Thornton Lee forced Russ Peters to ground out and end the game. The Indians collected six hits off Lee, but the Chicago portside tightened in the pinches.

Clint Brown hurled the final inning for Cleveland and gave up two hits, but stopped Chicago from scoring.

Mack made two of Cleveland hits, with Howell, Boudreau, Roy Weatherly and Hal Trosky getting the others.

The Indians return home tomorrow to open a three-game series against Detroit, with Mel Harder or Al Milnar due to face the Bengals in the opener.

Softspoken Roger Peckinpaugh, manager of the Indians, echoed Bob Feller's warning against stealing his pitches.

"Go ahead, you fellows who think you can call Feller's pitches, but it will be just too bad for you if someone gets hurt."

Quaker Courtmen Win Second Match

The Salem High tennis team chalked up its second straight Mahoning Valley league victory yesterday with a win over Youngstown Chaney on the Volney courts at Mill Creek park in Youngstown.

The Quakers, coached by Loren Early, swept both doubles matches and three of the five singles matches from the Chaney courtmen.

In the singles tilts, Schwager downed Baillie, 6-4, 6-1; and Banks edged Bolinger, 7-5, 7-5, for Chaney's only two victories. In the other singles contests, Capel defeated Hamilton, 6-0, 6-2; Ritchie turned back Evanoff, 6-1, 6-2; and Stewart walloped Duncan, 6-0, 6-0.

In the No. 1 doubles match, Capel and Ritchie mastered Schwager and Hamilton, 6-2, 6-4; and Stewart and Baillie collaborated to whip Wray and Baun, 6-2, 6-1, in the second doubles contest.

The next match for the Quakers, whose record now stands at two wins and no losses, is a non league tilt with Sebring next Monday at Sebring.

QUAKER TRACKERS MEET LOUISVILLE THIS AFTERNOON

Cope's Athletes Seeking First Win; Struthers Here Tuesday

Coach Fred Cope's 1941 track team goes after its first victory of the season today in a dual meet with Louisville High at Reilly stadium. The meet, which is the third of the year for the Quakers, is scheduled to get under way at 4 p. m.

The Salem squad will again be hampered by the loss of Bob Scullion and Letterman Bruce Krepps, in the shot put and high jump. However, continued improved performances by some of the Salem lads who were slow in rounding into form for the earlier meets will help to offset this loss.

In last year's meet with Louisville, held at Louisville, the Quakers returned home with a decisive victory over coach Wayne Ashbaugh's squad.

The next meet for the Salem lads is a dual contest with Struthers High school trackers at 4 p. m. Tuesday at Reilly stadium.

Following that comes the big event of the track season in Salem, the annual Night relays, and prospects for a successful meet are very bright. A large entry list is expected, and the presence of Jesse Owens, Negro speed king, will be an added drawing card on the program.

Tomorrow's Games
Pittsburgh at Cincinnati.
St. Louis at Chicago.
Boston at Brooklyn.
New York at Philadelphia.

Brown's Not Going To Grab All Grid Talent For O. S. U.; Thinks Of Smaller Colleges

Wants Fewer and Better Boys; Will Be More Than Satisfied "If We Can Get the 20 Boys We Really Want Each Year"

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, April 26.—That old, old "squawk" by Ohio's small college coaches that Ohio State university takes all the available high school football talent, and then uses only a tenth of it, is about to become a thing of the past.

Paul E. Brown, new mentor of the Buckeyes, who has already streamlined his varsity squad by cutting it to 45 men instead of the usual 80, promised that today.

"We are not interested in a multitude of freshmen players," the new boss of the Bucks declared. "If we can get the 20 boys we really want each year, we'll be more than satisfied. What we are after from the high school ranks is fewer and better boys."

Each year, Brown declared, scores of boys come to Ohio State with the idea of playing football, but most of them are not of Big Ten caliber. Many, when they fail to make the varsity squad, become dissatisfied and quit football.

"We want any boy who feels he is capable of playing Western conference ball to take a crack at it," Brown said, "and any student at Ohio State will get a chance to show all his ability."

Good Chance at Smaller Schools
"However, each year there are boys unable to make the Western conference teams who would be outstanding players on some of the state's smaller college squads. When a boy fails to make our squad, and drops out of football, he not only loses all chance to play football for himself, but he deprives some smaller school of a good player."

Lost to Football
As a result, some 200 or more boys each year were lost to football, since those erased from the squad declined, in most cases, to transfer to other schools where

STRAIGHT VICTORY

(By Associated Press)

Pitcher Ray Starr is out to make quite a prophet of Wade Killefer, Indianapolis manager. In spring training Killefer expressed the opinion that Starr, a veteran right hander purchased from Dallas of the Texas league last December, would win at least 20 games during the American association season.

The campaign entered its ninth day today and Starr already owns four victories—or all but one of the Indianapolis total.

His fourth in a row came yesterday as he stopped St. Paul, 5 to 1, on five hits.

Louisville, which celebrates its 65th anniversary of professional baseball today with a doubleheader against Minneapolis, warmed up to the occasion yesterday by blanking the Millers, 9 to 0.

In the only other game, Toledo clubbed out 13 hits for the second straight day and, aided by 10 bases on balls, trounced Kansas City, 11 to 5.

Milwaukee's game at Columbus was called off because of cold weather.

WILBUR SHAW SET FOR ANNUAL RACE
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 25—Wilbur Shaw, the Indianapolis speedway's most consistent winner, is eager to drive in this year's Decoration day classic, an associate said today, although he'll be up against the "13" superstition and some precedents.

His mechanic, Harry (Cotton) Henning, Indianapolis, reported that Shaw has advised him that he planned to commute frequently in his own airplane from his job in Akron, Ohio, for conferences and practice.

Shaw will drive an eight-cylinder supercharged Maserati for Michael J. Boyle, Chicago labor leader.

If he qualifies, the neat, mustached little sportsman will be competing in the annual international sweepstakes for the 13th time and trying for a fourth victory and third in a row.

Return of Old-Time Taste to Bread

... through use of flour and shortening of premium grades

A bread with
EXTRA RICH FLAVOR

Baked without steam in the oven. Our old-time methods retain goodness of finer ingredients

Here is the rich flavor of bread as it used to be in a white loaf baked the old way and made with special ingredients. It is the improved BOND White Bread.

To produce this bread, we have gone back to the old way of baking without using steam in the oven. This retains in the loaf the extra goodness of finer ingredients—and there is no toughness of the crust as with steam.

The special flours we use cost top prices, but they contain more protein food value and flavor elements. We buy a special, full-flavored shortening which few can obtain due to its limited supply—use only pure cane sugar and selected milk. It is further enriched not only by Vitamin B₁, but other essential vitamins and minerals, in cooperation with the National Nutrition Program to improve public health.

Every day more home-makers discover the old-time quality and extra rich flavor of this bread. Go to your grocer today and ask for BOND Bread—by name, to get its extra benefits.
